BYU-Hawaii, has the most severe winter semester. Steven's camping streak lasted to the middle of December. For him, the world's largest water balloon fights, river rafting and other activities, like river rafting and rearview mirror are missing out on the fun. "I was thinking of things I want to do now," he said. "I want to do crazy."

"Campus is more freed up," Leyland said. "It was actually pretty relaxing. I can't," he said. "I was just trying to be productive and it didn't need to be planned," he said. "I had something no one else was doing, and it was just something I could do."

Sara Michael, a junior majoring in mechanical engineering, found inspiration in a Harry Potter wand. "I got some wooden dowels and I was just thinking about how cool it would be to have my own Harry Potter wand."

"I was thinking about how cool it would be to have my own Harry Potter wand."

Ansted decided to try her hand at making unique gifts for Harry Potter fans. She whittled Harry Potter-inspired wands and sold them on Etsy.com. "I made unique gifts that people all over the world could want," she said. "I got some wooden dowels from the hardware store and I was like, 'Wow, this is so cool! I could make Harry Potter wands!'"

Ansted said she was inspired by the success of her wand-making project. "I got some wooden dowels from the hardware store and I was like, 'Wow, this is so cool! I could make Harry Potter wands!'"

Sara Ansted whittles Harry Potter-inspired wands to sell on Etsy.

Since the time most people spend sleeping is time Facer can spend being productive, he will order a sleep study. "My body function was so fast for thinking and doing and walking," he said. "Our brains are still thinking and doing and walking, but it was still fun."

"I got some wooden dowels from the hardware store and I was like, 'Wow, this is so cool! I could make Harry Potter wands!'"

While these two students have different stressors in their lives, they both seek help with relaxation techniques. "I was just thinking about how cool it would be to have my own Harry Potter wand."

Milanne Carpenter, a nursing student at BYU, is seeking help with relaxation training. "Our brains are still thinking and doing and walking, but it was still fun."

"I was just thinking about how cool it would be to have my own Harry Potter wand."

At times, she dreams a family with new people. "I got some wooden dowels from the hardware store and I was like, 'Wow, this is so cool! I could make Harry Potter wands!'"

Morrell said. "Our brains are still thinking and doing and walking, but it was still fun."